Dear Mr. Liversole.

Things are much worse at the Farm than I ever supposed.

I have proof before me that awful language goes on there unchecked, from hired man & boy & even Pointer:
what is worse that Pointer has looked on & more while the hired man has indecently assaulted young Walde,
a brother of a colleague here, sheltering in my house. I have wired today

ROBERT W. W. W. W.

James

to young W. to go to Page's or your's in my name for shelter, till I can write.

Please see that he is protected;
my honour is involved.

I have lost every particle of trust in Painter, who is a treacherous blackguard.

I have not yet told him what I know - but if it is possible <sup>they are still about</sup> I shall proceed criminally ag<sup>t</sup> the man & the boy, including P. as accessory to the deed.

anyways, I have done with him & I wd. not trust him with a stick.

I therefore ask you kindly to sign all cheques from date of this letter & present my letter to the bank to that effect.

I will not have Painter again on my premises once he has left;
and I can conceive nothing worse for the farm than that he should sit at the its doors. He wd.
certainly make difficulties for you,
after what he has done to me.
It wd. be the best possible thing to get them cleared out. Every one will soon know - and as for me I wd. have him on

BERKHAMSTED SCHOOL,

Dear Mr. Everole.

Will you show
to the Bank Managers this authority from me to take over my Trust bank acct? at once, and you alone to write cheques.

You have herewith my authority to administer the farm in any way you think fit & from any moment that you think fit.

Yr. sincerely
T. C. Fry.

my farm once he has left:
even as a visitor.

In fact I shall trust to you to clear out the whole boiling and start clear.

I sh<sup>d</sup> like young Walde to come to you as soon as you enter on the farm:
and earn what he can.
He is young & only wants teaching, we must try & make him forget this beaehery.
My honour has been bespattered by this disgraceful breakdown of my plans. I am most unhappy. Try & help me.

Y<sup>r</sup> v. Sincerely
T. C. Fry.
